Executive Summary

Unemployment occurs when people who are willing and able to work can't find jobs. It can happen for various reasons, like economic downturns, technological changes, or shifts in industries. When unemployment rates are high, it means fewer peoples are earning money, which can lead to less spending and a slower economy. On personal level, Unemployment can cause stress and financial hardship for individuals and families. Goverments and Organisations often step in with policies or programs to help create jobs and support those who are unemployed, aiming to reduce unemployment and it's negative effects on society. As a responsible citizens of indian society, we should take steps against unemployment.
